Rebecca Rubin™

1914

She's a lively girl with dramatic flair, growing up in New York City.

Rebecca lives in a row house on New York's bustling Lower East Side with her Russian-Jewish family. She dreams of becoming an actress one day, but her parents and grandparents have different ideas of what a young lady should do.

Growing up in the "melting pot" of the early 20th century, Rebecca learns about the various traditions that her neighbors and schoolmates celebrate. Readers will enjoy discovering how girls like Rebecca have found ways to blend old and new values—without giving up their dreams!
